Loose Leaves Prove Annoving. The loose Leaves Prove Annoying.

The loose leaves are a frequent source of annoyance to the book doctors. The remarky for these bothersome leaves is a hinge of percale or paper, which holds the murily page in place after the heavy press has been brought to bear on the book. In such cases the thin heard is always used to slip into the volume so that it will keep its shape properly.

The operation which requires the most skill is the sewing of the signature or division of a book back into place. The needle and course thread are pushed in and out of the holes in the signature and the binding, and when it becomes awkward to use the fingers the stender forceps are used to draw the needle in and out.

It is part of the work of every public library employe to take a hand in the hospital department, and ingenuity supplies means to remedy every complaint that is conjured up by even the most erratic book. The book dector trusts wholly to her own wit and skillful fingers to effect a cure, and there are few cases that are hopeless.

The route of the extension will probably be changed, in order to avoid any possible disaster that an eruption might bring.

MARRIED IN JAIL.

How a Determined Woman Defeated Her Rival.

New York, May 17. — The marriage of Charles BicPhee and Miss Minnie Martel, both of Worcester, Mass., which occurred in Greenwich. Conn., was a case where a determined woman defeated her rival. Miss Emily Dandurand of Woodesocket, R. I., was to have been McPhee's bride. Miss Martel, her rival, hastened to Greenwich and had McPhee arrested and placed in iail on a charge of breach of promise. McPhee remained obdurate in the lockup, feasting on ice cream, candy and cigars provided by Miss Martel until he capitulated with the renovation so complete, Swings out the warning sign:

A. S. Merriett Tells How Close He Came to Being Burned

Two Hundred Thousand Wild Men Live in the Dutch Possessions of New Guinea-White Population Is 60.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Scattle, May 17.—A seven thousand mile journey through the ten thousand islands of the South Seas has just been completed of the South Seas has just been completed by A. S. Merriett.

From Sydney to Manlla by way of the cannibal lands of North New Guinea, New Britain and New Ireland, and thence through the Dutch possessions further cast to Singapore and north to Manila, is the course followed by Mr. Merriett in his sea wanderings.

It is further from Sydney to Manila by this course than from Chicago, whence Merriett started, to Manila. New Guinca is 1,700 miles from end to end; New Britain 300 miles long. The voyage through the wilder pertions of the Islands occupied six wilder portions of the Islands occupied six weeks. The whole course is almost directly along the equator, the sun shining down constantly and vertically upon the ship's deck. A man's shadow is the shadow only of his panama, a rounded black spot only the size of his hat rim. The heat is like a blistering furnace, one's dress the very lightest of material, a light undershirt, white canvas coat and pajamas and white cloth shoes. Black leather would roast the feet as if in a bake oven.

Mr. Merriett's trip was one not only out of the average beaten tracks of the globe trotters, but it was an out of the way trip even in the out of the way corners of Oceanica. The regular course between South Australian ports to Singapore is along the coast of Australia and the south shore of New Guinea.

Went North of New Britain.

Pixley. the consellan. has entered suit against the city of Denver for $10,000, lies a story that is likely to drive the best hard linck stories of the season into temporary retirement.

Pixley sues the city of Denver for damages because they treated him badly when he had smallpox. In fact, they sent him to Orden, where he was made to shovel srow and saw wood, two things an actor lates to do, especially when he is suffering from the smallpox.

It is a sad, sad story as Pixley tells it.

Was it a Piot?

Pixley was playing with the "Shoot-the-Chutes" company in Denver when he became ill, and was informed that he had the smallpox.

Instead of arousing the sympathy of the Denverites this appeared to incite them to benverites this appeared to incite them to be a proper to the story of the shore and that which swelled the native heart with the greatest pride was a belt around the waits is making the plantation owners.
